Introduction. EU foreign policy has long been considered the exclusive domain of member states. This book challenges such state-centered wisdom by analyzing the influence of Brussels-based EU officials in the area of security and defence. Using case studies and unique insights from over a hundred interviews this book shows how everyday policy is made in practice.

Common Foreign and Security Policy - Wikipedia

Policy-making is generally defined as the formulation of ideas or plans that are used by an organisation or government as the basis for making decisions. In the case of the European Union, this is a particularly complex process which is closely linked to the limits of the Union's competences as set out in the treaties that underpin EU law. At European level, policy-making is the result of the interaction between EU institutions, Member States, but also a range of non-state actors from the ...
